

Best work is usually something one does that exceeds expectations. When someone does a project or a part of work that seems perfect. In my case I think that I may have more than a few works that can be considered my best. Even though I have a lot to go before I truly finish my best work, I have one that is currently my best. I say currently because improvement is always welcomed.

For my best work I have chosen my critical review. I enjoyed doing it and learning how to make critical reviews. I took my time analyzing the information and carefully planned how to proceed. The outcome is by far the best critical review I have done. I say this because I now know how to make one properly and to the best of my ability.
